MAPLE CREEK WATER SUPPLY IS SUFFICIENT

Tri-Cities Water Company
Completes Emergency
Dam and Starts Pumps

SITUATION NOW RELIEVED

The critical situation existing in the water service for the three towns of Charleroi, Donora and Monessen has for the present been relieved and if there are no new unusual conditions presented, there will be no occasion for fear. The Tri Cities Water company, by rushing work night and day has succeeded in damming Maple creek and now the entire supply from that creek is being used. Approximately three and one-half million gallons a day will be available. In order to prevent the possibility of still further trouble an electrical pump will be brought from Pittsburgh as soon as possible, together with pipe for an extension into the river. This will be used in case of another emergency.

The river dropped during Friday night to 38 feet on the upper sill at Lock No. 4, and stopped the operations of a number of towboats and flats which up until this time have been able to get through. Only the lightest barges now are able to get through the lock and it may be impossible to lock them in a day or two if the present fall keeps up.

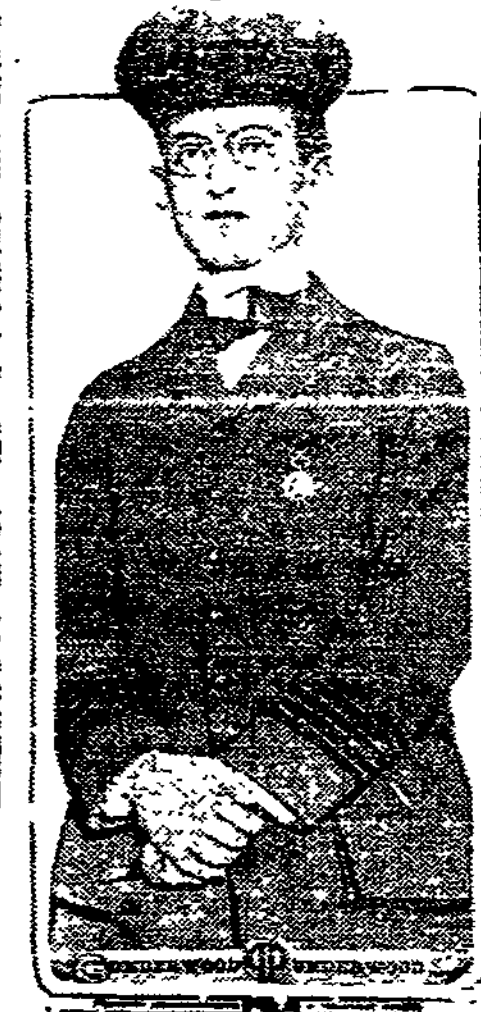

The four crabs to be used in repairing the break have practically been completed at the government yards, and the second of the four is being anchored. The steamer Marion from Point Marion is bringing pile drivers and a flat of steel piling from No. 11 to be used in stopping the break. With derrick boats Fred Shenkel and Frank Elwer are here from Lock No. 6. The patrol boat Kittanning and crane boat Monongahela with a large crew are coming from Lock No. 2 to help in the work. Col. T. P. Roberts, assistant engineer of the rivers, was here from Pittsburgh to inspect the work and assist Friday. Probably ten days will elapse before the break can be temporarily repaired so the river will rise.

BODY OF UNKNOWN IS FOUND IN THE RIVER

Floater Caught in Weeds of Marshy Bottom Short Ways Out From Shore Above Dunlavy—Identification Impossible

Caught in the marshy weeds of the river bottom about 20 feet out from the present water's edge above Dunlavy, the body of an unknown man was found late Friday afternoon. Coroner James T. Heffran was notified and with Deputy Coroner Lawrence B. Frye of Charleroi went to the scene. The body was partly embedded in the mud at the bottom and held by bushes. It was in such shape that identification would have been impossible, so the body was immediately buried.

TRAINING CAMP GROUNDS OFFERED

Pittsburg Speedway Association Asks President to Make Use of Them

LOCAL PEOPLE OWN STOCK

Charleroi people who own stock in the Pittsburg Speedway association are interested in the offer of the association to give the use of the association's grounds to the United States government as a mobilization and military training camp. A letter tendering the use of the grounds to President Wilson has been mailed.

A meeting of the association was held Friday, when Charles S. Van Voorhis of Charleroi, a director was present. Stock certificates were issued and he returned with a number for Charleroi people who have subscribed. The only other Charleroi man on the board is J. J. Hott who now is in Florida.

Following is a copy of the letter sent to President Wilson.

Dear Mr. President:—
On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Pittsburg Speedway Association, it is my pleasure and duty to offer to you for the convenience of the War Department, the use of our proposed speedway property comprising four hundred and forty-five acres as a mobilizing and military training camp. The property is ideal for such purposes.

This property is located five miles from McKeesport, Pa., on the Youghiogheny river; the Pittsburg & Lake

SPEERS' CASE TURNED OVER TO PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Coroner's Jury in Investigating Headley Tragedy
Recommends That State Compel Railroad to Make Changes to Prevent Other Accidents

Investigating this morning the Speers' crossing fatality of March 6, when Mrs. Ella Headley and her granddaughter Miss Edith Headley were instantly killed, the coroner's jury sitting in the inquest at the undertaking rooms of L. B. Frye turned the case over to the Public Service Commission and asked that the dangerous conditions existing at the Speers' crossing be relieved. Coroner Heffran conducted the inquest. Following was the verdict rendered:

We the jury find that Mrs. Ella Headley and Miss Edith Headley came to their death March 6, 1917, from shock and external hemorrhage due to being struck and run over by northbound express passenger train No. 7818, while crossing over the tracks of the Monongahela Division, Pennsylvania Railroad, at the Speers' road crossing. The deceased were crossing the tracks to get aboard the southbound passenger train which was approaching the Belle Vernon station at the time of the accident. We find further that the accident was due to the unsafe conditions that exist at this crossing, believing that a repetition of the accident is possible at any time. We call attention of the Public Service Commission to the dangerous conditions that exist with reference to passengers getting aboard or leaving trains at the above named station, and ask that the Pennsylvania Railroad company be compelled to furnish its passengers with a safe method of crossing the tracks.

Members of the jury were: S. L. Woodward, chairman; J. F. Laird, C. H. Christner, C. K. Chaffant, John Assenat and J. L. Reeves.

Witnesses heard were Samuel Twist, Nello Niccolio, Belle Vernon; Beatrice Conway, Edith Tanzer and Lois Linn, Monessen; Leonard Jamison and G. M. Bradley, station men; George Gaskill of Belle Vernon, Ed. Headley and Miss Edith Headley, people, baggage men. C. B. Hager, fireman and R. M. Flannigan engineer of the northbound train.

The story brought out was much the same as was first told. The two train No. 7818, while crossing over the southbound train, having purchased tickets to Coal Centre. Evidently they became confused and not knowing what to do were struck. A new story brought out was that by Leonard Jamison, station employee, who tried to save the two women. He said that he had crossed the northbound track on his way to the train, conditions that exist at this crossing, after telling the two women that the southbound train went on the inside track. Then he said they started across in the face of the approaching northbound train. The story was told in the ringing of the crossing bell, singers getting aboard or leaving and of the alarm given.

The board of directors of the Washington County Chamber of Commerce met Thursday in the Community building and transacted many matters of importance. The session was a special one and was presided over by John D. Berryman, of Charleroi, president of the organization. The question of holding a big picnic next summer under the auspices of the group was taken up and passed on favorably. The time for this affair will be set at a later date.

The next meeting of the board will be held in Washington on Washington's birthday in 1918, in connection with the annual convention of the South Western Pennsylvania Retail Merchants and Business Men's Association.

Offers Gift of Million to Jewish War Relief

The largest individual gift to the fund of the American Jewish Relief Committee for 1917 is that of Julian Rosenwald of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago. His offer is $100,000 to every million raised by the committee in the year. As $10,000,000 has already been pledged, Mr. Rosenwald's contribution will be a round million, unless the grand total should be swelled.

"Thousands of Jews are dying daily in Europe from starvation and cold," Mr. Rosenwald says. "The Revolution in Russia affords a direct channel for which our people have waited for centuries. It is not life alone that we can give them, but strength and courage to take their part in the great drama of freedom."

Notice to Water Consumers

On account of the dam at Lock No. 4 breaking it has lowered the river to such an extent as to almost prevent the operation of our pumps. However we are able to operate our pumps at present, but not to their fullest capacity. In order for us to insure the domestic consumers service it became necessary to shut off all industrial consumers. We respectfully urge upon all consumers to be as saving with water as possible until we are able to install special equipment to meet this unusual condition.

A BRILLIANT GATHERING OF NEW WEAR FOR EASTER

IT'S HIGH TIME to think of New Spring Clothes. Easter is rapidly drawing near—new wear will then be in demand. To the women of Charleroi and vicinity we announce that we are well prepared to meet their clothing needs. The most brilliant gathering of new Suits, Dresses, Waists, Millinery—most everything in fact, that a woman wears—is shown at this store.

SPRING'S SUIT STYLES

You have probably noticed how subtle a feeling there is about this season's suit styles. They give the wearer an appearance of frankness, simplicity. We found it difficult to find garments that would do this for every woman.

Our idea was a garment that would not only look right, when off the figure, but would look right, sit right and hang right—when worn. We were fortunate in securing such suits—They are skillfully designed and carefully tailored. The materials are of the kind we have no hesitancy in guaranteeing. Come in and see these suits.

BEAUTIFUL NEW COATS

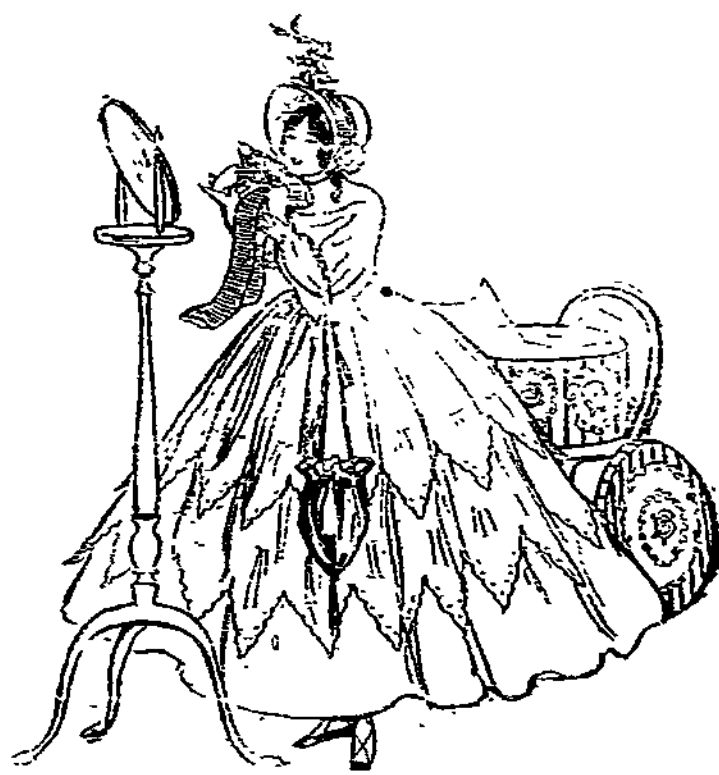

The Spring coat has become a necessity for the well dressed woman. Anticipating the requirements of hundreds of women we have purchased scores and scores of coats, in newest styles and all the favored fabrics and colors. These coats are from makers whose garments are not only the best in style but all that could possibly be desired in workmanship and general quality. The makers of our coats have not swerved from their policy of giving full measure of quality and fabric. You will be surprised that coats of such style and superiority can be bought for such reasonable prices as we have marked them.

A Showing of New Styles in Waists

For many weeks new shipments of waists have been arriving almost daily until the stocks in this section are now complete and there is now wonderful showing of the very newest waist styles. We invite women who are interested in "What's what in the World of Fashion" to come in and see these new waists.

The display is so large that practically every kind of waist is to be seen the prices range from $1.00 to $8.50.

MILLINERY

The newest modes—showing fashion tendencies in every detail—are here in profusion. Every stylish shape, every new color and every popular type of trimming and material is included in this brilliantly beautiful display.

You will enjoy these lovely new Chapeaux for Spring, whether or not you wish to buy now, and it will give us pleasure to show you them. Come in today and see the display and talk over the styles.

PLEADS PATRIOTISM FOR ALL AMERICANS

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail: We, the American people, are living in a distressed age. It is full of warfare and manslaughter. It is time when a part of the people prosper while another part is starving. Now that we are on the verge of war it is the duty of every person to forsake the country from which he descended be it other than the United States of America.

We should pattern after our forefathers who established this Nation. It is our duty to fight till the last minute to fight and retain the respect of all nations. Our flag must not go to the bottom of the sea nor must our people.

Let us say in the words of Patrick Henry we must fight for us it not true that we have been imposed upon as were the colonists in the revolution.

Recall to your mind just a little of history.

What caused the war of 1812? The Britains imposing on our ships in the sea.

Some may say our President has been too slow but as true and loyal American citizen's we should form no opinions in the time of such a crisis.

Every man professes or should profess to be a patriot.

No man can be a true patriot and be anything but pro-American.

A patriot will stand by his country no matter what his individual opinion may be. Are you a patriot?

I say, "let us strive to be true and loyal patriots in the name of God and America."

Therefore people of America be ready at the trumpet call of Uncle Sam.

As an act of Patriotism and respect for your country do the following:

Remove your hat or salute the American Flag when passing it.

Rise at the sound of a Patriotic song.

Stand where you are while a Patriotic selection is being played.

"American."

Charleroi, Pa., March 30, 1917.

While we may be weak in flesh and old in years, yet the spirit of the sixties remains. To the present generation must belong the honor of protecting and caring for the Stars and Stripes and our old time spirit—we bequeath them."

PETITION IMPROVEMENT OF CANONSBURG ROAD

The county commissioners Thursday affixed their signatures to the petition, presented by a delegation in the interest of the Canonsburg-Venice road, asking that the state give its aid in the improvement of this important stretch of highway. It is a state aid road and under the law the county pays one-fourth of the costs of the improvement, the township one-fourth and the state one-half.

Efforts have been made for several years to get this road improved. There is now an improved highway from McDonald to Venice, a little over three miles. From Venice to Canonsburg the distance is four and four-tenths miles. The road at present is in very bad condition. It is a connecting link in an important system of highways giving an outlet to improved roads in Allegheny county, McDonald section residents coming to Washington cannot do so by automobile during the winter because this road is impassable for automobiles.

A petition in behalf of the road, signed by over 700 persons, was filed with the commissioners.

County Commissioner John O. Watson, who returned Thursday from a business trip to Harrisburg, stated that he had been informed at Harrisburg that bids were to be advertised for this week for the improvement of the seven miles of road between Canonsburg and Bridgeville, a portion of the Washington-Pittsburgh highway. With this section of road improved there will be a continuous improved road from Washington to Pittsburg.

Boy Scout Field Surgeons Give Demonstration as "Battle" Rages

A cursory glimpse of this picture would probably give the impression that a real battle was in progress, when in reality it is only a sham-battle of Boy Scouts in Central Park, New York. The Scouts mobilized their Field Hospital units and in the "heat of the fray" bandaged the injured, performed feats in mock surgery and carried the wounded off the field to hospitals all set up, ready and waiting. The work of the lads showed the high state of efficiency of the Scout service. Of course, the "injured" were permitted to go home to their mothers after they had been treated.

GARDEN COLUMN

Small Yard Gardens.

The Department of Agriculture has found in one of our eastern cities a back yard garden which it regards as a model. This back yard is of a kind typical in cities which built houses on narrow frontages with common side walls, the houses being open to the air only in front and back.

This particular house occupies the total frontage of a lot 25 feet wide. Behind the house is a yard extending back 70 feet to an alley. In the rear of the yard is a small tool shed 15 by 10 feet in dimensions. The alley is cut off from the yard by a tight board fence, and the sides of the yard, from the house to the alley, are also bounded by fences of the same sort.

The owner of this property has laid the back yard out as a permanent garden. The side fences have made to act as trellises for grape vines, having 14 of these vines planted at 10-foot intervals. Down each side of the yard, parallel to the side fences and four feet away from each run walks, two and a half feet wide, from the house to the alley, one of the walks and turning around the shed to meet the other walks at the extreme rear of the yard.

In the space between the walks, a space 12 feet wide, is the vegetable garden proper. The owner, however, does not give up his back yard entirely to the garden. Immediately behind the house between the two walks is a concrete pavement five feet long and 12 feet wide (the distance between the walks.)

This gardener has bordered the two walks on both sides with strawberry plants, having over 200 such plants, sufficient to give him an abundance of strawberries in season.

Between the strawberries and the grapevines on the fence he has set out 16 current bushes at 10-foot intervals. Between the current bushes he finds room for various sets of beans, eggplant and the like, which make an attractive background for the walks.

In the rear of the yard, opposite the shed, he has made his permanent asparagus bed in a space 8 by 7 feet.

The rest of the garden is given over to close-growing, low and quick-maturing vegetables, such as radishes, beets, lettuce, carrots, parsnips, peas, onions, and beans. He finds room for 30 rows of these, each row nearly 12 feet long.

Although in a northern climate, this gardener succeeds in making his ground produce two crops each year. When the early peas are gathered he plants more early peas and kale in their rows. The late peas have no successor crops, but there were only two rows of late peas, against six rows of the other variety. The onion sets, when pulled are succeeded by tomato vines, trained a dozen plants about a single stem. Among the tomatoes spinach, which can be gathered until snow flies and after that, is planted.

Two crops of beans, early and late, are grown in four rows, with winter onions growing among the late bean plants. Two crops of carrots are produced on two rows, while four rows of beets later give way to cabbage. Lettuce and parsnips and radishes sown in close rows in the rear of the garden, produce second crops and also provide space for some late beans.

This garden produces nearly all its owners food needs during a large portion of the year. The Department of Agriculture advises home gardeners to study this model and adapt its methods to their own spaces.

Erie railroad running through it and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad within two hundred feet, as well as trolley car service near by. The topography of the land is ideal for a military camp, being abundant in level land which, of course, is rare to find in the Pittsburgh district. This land was purchased by this association after viewing and considering every known available property in Allegheny county suitable for the building of a two-mile race course which, of course, requires level land. Therefore, Mr. President, in offering the use of this property to the War Department, we do so firmly believing it to be the most suitable and best located property for a military camp, accessible to the city of Pittsburgh. You will find enclosed photograph views of various sorts of the property.

The Pittsburgh Speedway Association is willing to delay the construction of its speedway race course if by doing so it can render a service to our government in this great emergency.

Assuring you that we are with you, heart and soul, in every move you make, and with best wishes,

Yours very truly,

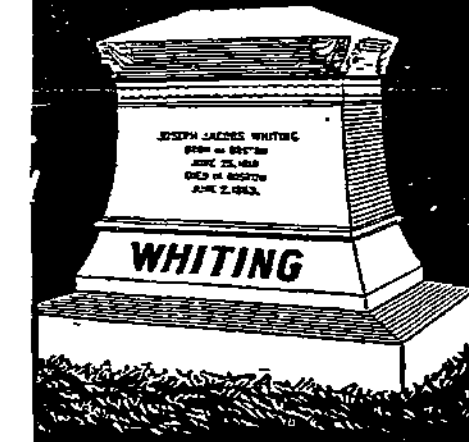

Pittsburgh Speedway Association. Joseph B. Callanan, President.

These Types of Girl Would "Man" Armored Motor Battery if "Called"

Perhaps it is not generally known that women automobile mechanics are just as efficient as men. But the fact remains Miss I. L. Hill, cranking this machine, and Miss Jean Dean Barnes, looking over the engine, are helping to "man" the first Armored Motor Battery in New York. The test of driving a motor vehicle in New York comes pretty near to running one for driving anywhere. These girls are "grads" of the Y. M. C. A. Auto School.
